Introduction

Many English dictionaries have been compiled over the years, each one adding to the vast knowledge of our language and enhancing our understanding of the words which make up our vibrant and ever-changing vocabulary. This dictionary is like no other in the history of the English language. It is the result of painstaking and in-depth research into previously unknown aspects of a body of English vocabulary. This research has uncovered new meanings and interpretations of established words and terms which expand their richness and versatility.

The entries in this dictionary, when properly used, will open up new horizons and possibilities for you to incorporate these meanings into your everyday spoken and written repertoire. Perhaps they will even inspire and encourage you to discover new meanings of already established terms. So, why The Other Dictionary? Simple. Every dictionary is based on the same type of word meaning. You can look at them all and you will find more or less the same analysis. When you look in this dictionary, however, you will encounter a whole new level of meaning, recorded nowhere else. Eventually, it will become just the other dictionary that you consult when you need a new the meaning to an old word. So consult, learn and enjoy. You won't regret it.

What the experts have said about this truly phenomenal book!

“A truly phenomenal book!” Ann Eckspeart

“I am truly amazed that a book like this could ever reach the market place!” Prof. S. Orr

“Never in all the annals of the history of the English language, or any other language come to think of it, has a book like this ever been produced! Nor will another book like it ever be produced!” Dr. D. Bux

“This dictionary is unique! Nor does it have a precedent! What’s more, it’s totally unlike all the books ever written before it!” Sir T. Fyde

“I challenge anyone to find a book quite like this one! Go on! See if you can find one! Ten quid says you won’t!” Lord Helpus

“Wassamatter? Wassappening? Wassatime? It’s too bloody early! What? Is that really the time? How much did I drink last night? What bloody book? Pass the bin!” Pres. U. Mabley
